

One of the easiest things you can do to make sure your energy bill is as low as it can be, is to check your concessions are up to date and being applied to your bill.

Think of your Pensioner Concession, Health Care or Veteran Affairs Gold Card as membership cards to a very exclusive club. A club that saves you money on your gas and electricity bills.

If you're not sure if your energy company has all your concessions listed on your account, give them a call to check. They're only too happy to make sure everything is present and correct.

Energy concessions

Take your first step towards cheaper energy

Check in with your energy company every 12 months

This would be our number one tip. Your concessions are only added to your bill if your company has the most up-to-date information, so make sure the name and address on your energy bill matches the name and address on your concession card. If any of your personal details change, you move house, or get a new concession card call your company and update them as soon as possible.

Know your energy concessions

There are probably more concessions available than you realise. Ask your energy company to check you're getting all the concessions you're eligible for. They will be able to do a quick check. If you've missed out on claiming any concessions, your energy company can back-date them for the last 12 months.

All energy concessions are listed over the page – if you think you might be eligible for any of them, give your energy company a call and explain your situation. If you're eligible they'll talk you through how to apply.
